STANLEY HOUSE,
WATER STREET, AUGUSTA, ME.

G. W. RICHER, would respectfully announce to the Travelling Public that he has recently opened the Stanley House Augusta and furnished it throughout with NEW AND ELEGANT FURNITURE, and made every arrangement necessary to continuing it as a First Class Hotel.
This is the most centrally located House in the city, being directly opposite the Depot, and in close proximity to the steamboat landings, Court House, Post Office, and but a few minutes walk from the State House.
Business men and persons travelling for pleasure will find that this House affords every convenience or luxury that can be desired, and the Proprietor is determined to spare no pains to make time very respect second to none in the State.
Books for all stages leaving town will be kept at this House.
In connection with this above are good Stables with attentive and careful Hostlers.

THE HATCH HOUSE
Main Street, Bangor, Maine.
This House has been thoroughly repaired, refitted, and refurnished throughout with New Carpets, Furniture, Beds and Bedding, and is now open for the reception of company under the charge of the Subscriber.
It is a large, commodious, and well furnished House, situated on Main Street, near the centre of the city, and within a short distance of the Steamboat Wharves and the Depot of the P. & K. Railroad, to and from which Coaches are always in readiness to convey passengers.
The numerous advantages separately, and particularly to those visiting the city on business or for pleasure recommend it as one of the most desirable Houses in the city.
Connected with the House is a large and commodious Stable, in charge of competent and faithful hostlers.
By strict personal attention to the comfort of his guests the proprietor hopes to receive a liberal share of patronage.

ANTAGONISTIC
To Prejudice and Empiricism!
OLD DR. LEVERWELL'S
(Member of the Royal College of Surgeons (1847) Late Physician of the Hôpital Dieu, 28 years Medical Practitioner, &c.)
Radical Regenerator,
FOR SEXUAL WEAKNESS,
In all its forms, as Nocturnal and Diurnal Emissions, Nervous Irritability, Premature Decay, Loss of Vivacity, Impotency, and all diseases arising from self pollution.
This excellent Remedy discovered by the world renowned Dr. CELVERWELL in London, the most successful practitioner in the line for the last 40 years, is now for the first time offered to the afflicted in the fullest confidence of its extraordinary virtues. Its salutary effects are almost instantly felt, and it will doubtless at once supersede all other means recorded to cure this dreadful disease. A single trial will convince the most sceptical, that a safe and perfect cure is now within the reach of all, at the expense of a few dollars, which cannot be procured for all the gold of the world. The heavy expenses incurred in bringing this article before the public could not be risked were it not for the same purpose not a sure guarantee that its employment by one person will add through recommendation resulting in every thousand to many.
Dr. CULVERWELL's celebrated and exclusively novel plan of treating these diseases is in the interest of humanity recommended to physicians throughout the land, to whom every facility will be afforded for testing its wonderful efficacy in their private practice.
Full and plain directions for all the different ailments of the complaint accompany Dr. Culverwell's URGENT LATOR-REMEDY, enough to enable every one to be their own doctor of herself in success fully. Price $2 on receipt of which it will be forwarded by mail free of postage, to any part of the country. Address, Messrs. BRIDGMAN & CO., Druggists and Apothecaries, 158 Grand St., New York. Sole Agents for the United States and Canada. Nov 19 dawly

550,000 Acres Selected
Pine and Farming Land
IN MICHIGAN.
THE SAINT MARY'S FALLS SHIP CANAL COMPANY
OFFER for sale these Lands which are principally situated in the lower Peninsula of Michigan on and in the vicinity of the large streams and rivers easy of access, and selected under more favorable circumstances than Any other Western Lands.
Were chosen with great care and reference to the location on the streams and the quantity and quality of the pine timber. Of the account,
For Lumbering Purposes,
They are very desirable and valuable. The streams are large, and capable of floating logs at all seasons of the year with harbors at their mouths, on the Lake. Many of these points settlements and extensive lumber operations are formed and conducted with uniform success, proving already the most profitable lumber operations in the Union and having access, by means of Lake navigation, to and the other great Lumber Markets of the country.
CHICAGO, DETROIT,
Tracts of from 40 to 40,000 Acres will be found at convenient points, affording opportunities for mill or a small or the most extensive lumbering operations. A large portion of these Lands are among The Best Farming Lands of the West and all contain enough of the PINE or TIMBER to more than pay for the land, leaving moderate buildings and other improvements, for very superior inducements to farmers seeking a western home.
The Climate is Mild and Equable, and the land is adapted to all the grains, roots, and produce raised in the most favored portions of the West.
Companies of 10, 15 or 20 Persons, with their families, will find location just suited to the formation of a settlement, with good water power, and convenient access to neighboring settlements.
TERMS.
One-fifth will be required at the date of sale, and the balance in one, two, three and four years, with interest at six per cent per annum.
The Company have full and complete descriptions of each tract of the lands, from actual exploration by several different parties, with accurate maps of each township, according to government surveys. These may be seen at the Land Office of the Company in Detroit, Michigan.
Copies of Maps, field notes, and other information concerning the lands will be furnished, without charge, to those wishing to purchase.
Large Maps of the State showing the lands of the Company, will be found at public places in most of the principal towns in the Eastern and North western States. GEO. S. FROST,

TO CONSUMERS OF PICKLES.
BELIEVING that the Public have become tired of purchasing Pickles in Packages holding in many cases, fifty per cent less than represented, we have commenced putting up, in addition to our present second size jar, an article which we are labelling WM. UNDERWOOD'S CODS EXTRA PICKLES, a jar containing full sized jars, which are legibly stamped on the glass, with their exact contents in ounces—thus enabling the housewife to verify their truth.
These Extra Pickles are put up with every regard to style, quality and flavor, and will be sold at fairly remunerating prices.
We have made no change in our manner of Preparing Pickles, never having resorted to any deleterious means to attain this end. The Cider Vinegar which we use is made from sound fruit and is entirely free from Pyroligneous or any other injurious ingredient which is not the case with that used in most brands of English Pickles found in this country.

PROFIT AND LOSS:

—OR—

Conscience and the 4th Commandment

BY REV. J. H. INGRAHAM.

(CONCLUDED.)

"Then, sir, I must decline the place," firmly answered Emerson, as the druggist was finishing his reference.

"I will take it, however, sir," swored Cartwright, quickly. "I am one who believes apothecaries ought to keep open on Sundays."

"Are you a dissenter, sir?" asked the druggist, turning to Edward, and scarcely regarding Cartwright's speech.

"I am, sir." "Good morning."

And the conscientious young man left the counting room. The druggist followed him to the street door.

"I will make it seven hundred and board."

"No, sir."

"I will give you a round thousand. You are the very person I want. Your references speak highly of you. You had best think now, lest I throw away a good place. Do not be foolishly conscientious."

"My conscience cannot be bought, sir," replied Emerson, with a smile, and bowing he left him.

The druggist bit his lips and turned to Cartwright.

"Well, sir, let me see your credentials."

William handed them to him.

"Very good. I see you are highly recommended by Faxon & Sons, Boston, whom I well know. So you are willing to take this place—Sunday or no Sunday."

"Yes, sir."

"At six hundred a year and board?"

"I trust I shall be."

"You shall enter upon your duties to-morrow morning, sir."

"Very well," answered Cartwright.

To-morrow was the holy Sabbath—that day on which God commends men to refrain from work. When the church bells rang, Edward, who had taken the other place at five hundred dollars and board, left his boarding house to go to church, and William Cartwright at the same moment left his to go to the store of the apothecary. As Edward entered the vestibule of the church, he slipped a piece of paper into the sexton's hand, with the request that he would hand it to the clergyman. Its purport may be guessed, when the reader is informed that the minister added to the usual service the thanksgiving for a Safe return from sea. This was the young man's first Sunday on shore, and this his first duty of gratitude to God. At the same moment while the whole congregation were uniting in this thanksgiving of the unknown ranger, Cartwright was selling soda to a tipsy sailor, for Mr. Birkadell, the druggist, sold a little of everything, besides medicines. He had a fancy case, in which were temptingly displayed perfumes, toilet soaps of diverse colors, elegant hair brushes, tooth brushes, cologne water, and such like articles. At one end of the store was a soda fountain, upon the marble slab of which were temptingly displayed tall and slender decanters of syrups, and also cognac brandy, and one of gin, that to dash the soda with. In warm weather the soda-fountain was so well patronized by thirsty people that would drink in an apothecary's shop, when they would not enter a bar-room, that Mr. Birkadell used to boast that his soda-fountain, on a hot Sunday, paid his expenses for the week. Thus the druggist whipped the devil round the stump, and under the shield of keeping open Sunday to sell medicines, he gratified the thirst of the non-church portion of the community, and escaped the temptation of "the devil," by selling liquors, and put much money into his own pocket. It was not the sale of medicines that made keeping open on Sunday so profitable to the druggist, as the sale of a hundred other things which he sold under the shadow of his taste and morals.

In this sale Mr. Cartwright remained three years, when he opened a store for himself, upon capital advanced by a speculator, who laughed that the first business with interest hundred per cent, was better than a gold mine. At the same time Emerson went into business with a partner as conscientious as himself.

The advertisements of the young druggists appeared the same morning. They were equally quaint and transparent, for though Mr. Cartwright was a religious man, yet he was a more liberal and correct business man than Emerson.

"At nine o'clock Saturday night Emerson closed his store. Upon the door he had placed a card, which could be seen by any one coming out, which read as follows:

"As this store is not open Sunday, gentlemen desiring medicines will try to procure them by Saturday night. Physicians' prescriptions, if a case of necessity, when sent to the house, will be attended to.

E. Wilmot Emerson & Co. Druggists."

"You will lose custom, sir," said Edward, a landlord, on returning after reading the placard, "I expect you are, and he shook his head ominously. "Your neighbor over the way there, Mr. Cartwright, will take away all your business."

"I may lose some customers at first, but in the end, I feel that he will lose a portion of the citizens, who reverence the Sabbath, and conform to it. I shall feel that I am doing my duty in observing the Sabbath, and going to church."

"We shall see, in the long run, answered the wealthy landlord, "in ten years you will be a poor man, or just what you are, and Cartwright rich."

"To get along in this world, one must not be afraid to take advantage of both wind and tide. I only speak for your good, sir."

Edward thanked him and turned to wait on a customer.

"The next Sunday, Cartwright's store, after having been closed the Sunday previous, was thronged with young gentlemen, topers and loiterers, both brokers and all assembled the earliest free drinks of rum, on the occasion of his starting into business, for the young proprietor had given to friends to understand that the rum would flow free of charge on that day to all comers.

"III.

"FIFTEEN YEARS AFTER.

"It was a pleasant sunny afternoon. A group of idlers were standing at the corner near a bank, some smoking, some talking, some watching the passers by. A man with a hurried anxious gait, and taking by the button one of the party, took him a couple of yards aside.

"Major, I am confoundedly hard up to-day, got a note at $800 to meet, and am short $100. Can you lend me that sum till Monday?

"Can I well do it, Mr. Cartwright—should be glad to accommodate—but I do believe you are my debtor to two or three favors of this kind."

"I was said coldly.

"Yes, but aren't you put security in the fixtures of my store?" answered the apothecary, with a look of pique and annoyance.

"Can I do no more than say, sir.

"Go to the ——, then answered Cartwright, turning away, red in the face and mutering on.

"Don, borrowing of you, has Major Dand inquiring of one of the group, a little whozzy looking man, a note to pay.

"Trying to, but I have done lending him.

"Yes, he never pays if he can help it. I have shaved for him till he can get no more paper. Not he ought to be doing good business.

"Yes, and you did this, too, but he is a wayward in trouble. He has been in business fifteen years and has not more than cleared expenses, from year to year, always borrowing money. His credit now is worse out. He just lives on loans, and borrowing to day of Peter, to pay Paul of yesterday, and to morrow of John, to pay Peter of to day.

"He ought to make money, he keeps open Sundays as well as week days, said the little man. He is sick to his store except when he is out borrowing, and has no vicious habits. I can't see why he is always driven to such straits.

"Emerson, said Cartwright, suddenly entering this gentlemen's counting room, is the last resort of despair, and that I see you are engaged. I will wait till you are at leisure.

"The person Mr. Emerson was engaged with was the old landlord who fifteen years before, had predicted his downfall for not keeping open on Sunday. The white headed man was in the act of signing a deed, and Mr. Emerson was filling up a check.

"There, sir, the property is yours, said the rich man. "You have a bargain in it at twelve thousand dollars.

"There are the checks for the amount, sir, answered the creditor, placing two checks on as many banks in his hand.

"All right, Mr. Emerson. You have got a good trade in buying this country seat, as you go in buying the store, which at twenty-four thousand dollars was cheap enough. Well, you are a prosperous and lucky man.

"In spite of shutting up on Sunday, oh quietly, and with a smile remarked Mr. Emerson.

"Well, sir, I believe you are right after all, for Cartwright, who has never closed his store on that day is a poor man, while you have not only a rich store, but have added a large wholesale department, by buying the adjoining store, and have a handsome house in town, worth sixteen thousand dollars all paid for, and a new country house to take your family to in summer, worth as much more, though you have given me but twelve thousand for it, and I don't know how many lots you own and small tenements. You are a rich man, sir.—Good day, good day.

"Here the rich citizen rose to leave the counting room, when, for the first time he was aware Mr. Cartwright was present. He seemed about to make an apology for using the name so freely but, after a second thought, seeing the speech clearly did not look towards him, bowed and passed out in silence.

Mr. Emerson, have you a hundred dollars you can spare at a fair rate for a day, have a note to take up and—

I will am Carlwright's face was crimsoned with shame and embarrassment, for he did not like his rival who envied him his property, and felt lowered in his own mind when comparing himself with him. He felt the opposite to Sunday, yesterday perated by both had been practically tested and that he who had feared God and kept his commandments had prospered, while I who had treated his Sabbath with contempt had found nothing but misfortune.

There is the amount, William, said the old friend, kindly placing a hundred dollar note in his hand.

As Carlwright took it with emotions between joy and shame he said —

The old man was right Emerson. You who shut up Sunday are now rich, while I, an poor man. I wish now, I had followed your advice.

Not my advice—it was the command of God, answered Emerson. What saith the scripture? Fear God and keep his commandments, and all things shall be added unto you!

I never believed the Bible to be true as I find it to be to day, answered Carlwright, leaving the store. Yes he added firmly audibly, as he hastened to the bank youters surely is a God above, who directs and governs the business of the world, prospering those who love and obey him, and blesting as with mildew those who despise his commands.

"The Duty of the Democratic Party as to the Slave Trade."

Eight years ago the Argus, a Democrat paper held and taught the doctrines of the Wilmot Proviso—To exclude slavery from free territory was, we were told, the right and the duty of the North. Now, as a tempt to do so is branded as treason, and the subject is pronounced unconstitutional and unpatriotic.

Two years ago, the Bangor Journal advocated the cause of slavery extension in the territories denounced the repeal of the Missouri Compromise and demanded a repeal of the fugitive slave law. Now, it supports the party and the candidate whose platform opposes the repeal of the avowed reason that it was necessary for slavery extension.

Two years hence all these papers, or so many of them as shall be in existence will clamor for the repeal of the law forbidding the slave trade. The South will demand it not so much for the purpose of practically reopening the traffic, for this might prove the ruin of the slave breeding States—but to subdue the North and justify the popular institution before the world.

Politicians and journals now sporting over the triumphs of slavery and celebrating the victory which they hope to win over the North will yet be found sustaining the views and opinions contained in the following article which we find in the Charleston Standard of the 13th inst. We place this prediction on record for future reference.

The Slave Trade and the Democratic Party.

We have in editorially hinted that slave trade in many of its aspects but before taking final leave of that subject I may be important to place right in a prominent one to the Democratic party.

The time was not proper for doing so when the series of articles was originally written—We might have disturbed our friends in the Presidential contest [illegible] which they strove so hard not have been prepared to [illegible] but it is now over, the Democratic party is now in a position to project its course, and duty, if possible to adopt a line of policy that will satisfy this section, now roused which threatens to break the structure of our Union, and will can convince of none which tends so directly to that object, as the one which leads at once to the removal of restrictions from the slave trade.

The Democratic party has gained a triumph over abolitionism but it were simple to suppose that we have achieved a final victory—the wolves driven back to the hills will not more certainly return when roused than will the fire solid party in the North when we shall have abandoned an attitude of resistance. There is a necessity that the South shall be relieved from a position to invite attack that the relations of the two sections which compose this Union, shall be so settled as that the one shall no be a legitimate object of plunder to the other, and to effect this object—to place them upon an equal grade with respect to each other and upon positions of equal respectability before the world, it is imperatively necessary to remove the brand of piracy imposed upon our institutions and reverse and emancipate the South.

The Democratic party owes it to the South, and is under every obligation to make the payment. It is in virtue of the South alone that it has been able to achieve success. We gave it not only support to the extent of our numbers but we gave them an attitude of resistance which diverted aggression from its purpose—It is by only that the Union and its glorious institutions have been saved from the grasp of the sectional hive. There is no single Northern State that would not have given a majority to the end of granting the helm of government if they had been assured of the ability to wield it, but they rather took their chances of fortune under a constitutional government than trusted to a compromise with that section whose lofty bond of union was the hope of plunder, and from the fear they might never enjoy the fruit of a sectional triumph, they joined the South to perpetuate the Constitution. The South therefore contends all that is vital in the Democratic party, is at the main trunk of our national structure which gives to northern majorities the opportunity of nestling among its branches, and as well from the recollection of present obligation as the hopes of that success which the South can always give to the party that may be true to her in the party bond to consider for us and to adopt the measure necessary to the strength and integrity of Southern institutions.

To the accomplishment of that object, the measure we propose is of the very last importance. It is vain to look for a proper measure of stability and progress to the South while the restrictions of the slave trade continue—Without it we cannot look for the full development of our resources. Without population, we cannot hope for a proper share of power in the general government. While with the brand upon it consisting in the act of Congress declaring the slave trade piracy, we can never hope for a position in the regards of an enlightened world. If the trade be piracy the slave was as plunder. By specious reasoning we may cover up the stolen goods from the thefts of the procurement, but the natural logic of the world will still pursue the crime to its consequences. Though we show, as we can show, that this union of unequal races exhibits the best form of society the world has ever seen, that it shows order and the securities for order, that it has elevated the African, that it has raised the savage to an agency in the civilization of the world and has given the ruling race a higher point to start from in his reach to higher thoughts and nobler purposes—still if it be crime to take the slave, it must be crime to keep him, or if the form be right, the process to its formation cannot be that darkest act in the dark catalogue of crimes which we profess to hate; and entertained, reason tells us that we must abandon the defence of slavery, or we must remove its consummation from the statutes of the country. We cannot disaffirm the sentence, for it is our own act, we are a miserable apologist of this government, and the No this what it assumes to be, the only party to hold intercourse with the world on this is our own voluntary act and we cannot object that it shall be taken as a confession of judgment, and that the sentence of execration legitimately comes upon us.

In defence of slavery, therefore, there is no position left us but that of the outlaw, who strikes for advantages which he has no rights to claim and against the forms of a society he assumes against the position he assumes in association with the high office while the South is called upon to perform. If she has to bear record, the Democratic party, and the time shine and glorious of the Union she must be legitimated and called to the recognition of an enlightened world. Though it is not to do this she has at least the rights of her own form of society, and is confident upon her to legitimate herself. If the Democratic party there fore would rest upon the South, or if it would preserve the South in permanent connection with the other section of this Union it must come, and come speedily, to this act of justice.

Gems of Democratic Whiggery.

The Democrats and Whigs of Ellsworth (as we learn from the Bangor Democrat and Journal) attempted a glorious ion over the election of a Southern candidate for President, on Wednesday evening last. The proceedings are published in those papers and we select a few gems from among the toasts. They overflow with bile as well as Billingsgate and show how to repulse majorities at the North cut them to the heart.

Some of the papers of the North are already substituting paragraphs and articles in favor of the blessed institution of slavery—showing how much better it is than freedom for the negro and how happy various cases where liberated slaves have voluntarily gone back and embraced their masters. The next step for these papers is to argue for the re opening of the African slave trade as a measure of humanity, towards the benighted man, and of legitimate and profitable commerce for the Union saving merchants of the North.

The Mormons in England. The Merchester Examiner says that at the present time considerable excitement exists among the Mormon sects of that town, in consequence of a large number of persons who have recently renounced their principles. One reason of this reaction is said to be the circulation demand of a tenth of the earnings of the saints through out Europe for the good of the Church in Salt Lake City. Those who do not pay are to be cut off from the Church.

The formation of a new county from portions of Lincoln and Waldo, is again to be brought before the Legislature. It is suggested that the necessity for a new county in Lincoln may be overcome by the establishment of two Half shire towns, in one of which the courts to be held alternately.

The returns of votes in this state, published by us yesterday were copied from the open returns sent to the Secretary of State. We should have omitted them to the Sensible Journal, as we copied them from that paper. It will be seen that some of the towns in our vicinity, are not yet officially reported.

Prue and I. By George William Curtis—New York: Dix, Edwards & Co. 1856.

The sketches in this delightful volume are most literally fancy sketches—but they are the product of a warm, genial and loving soul, which looks out on the world in a spirit of invincible contentment, and appropriates to itself, without subtracting from the possessions of others all the beauties of nature and of art. The author builds his castles in the air, and philosophizes as easily upon the world as it flies past in the pursuit of the apples of Sodom.

Our copy of this work comes through Messrs A. Williams & Co Boston. For sale by O. R. Patch.

A Sad Surprise Party.—The Albany Knickerbocker relates the following incident of a surprise party in that city—

The day before yesterday a very unpleasant incident occurred at one of these parties. A merchant who has heretofore held a respectable position in society was selected by some friends to call on a. It was a surprise party, in hand insensible from the effects of liquor, lying on the hall stairs and his wife with a bruised face and a black eye bathing his temples with ice water. How many such scenes occur unknown to the world!

Suppose Case of Asphyxia.—Great excitement existed in Woburn on Thursday night consequent upon the sudden disappearance of a little daughter of Mr. John J. Peppey, editor of the Middlesex Journal. She was missed about 4 o'clock in the afternoon, and the friends continued to search for her until 10 o'clock, when the bells were rung, and the citizens turned out to the number of five or six hundred, with lanterns, and searched the adjacent district to a distance of three miles. She was at length found at 3 o'clock yesterday morning locked up in the Orthodox church.

The most mysterious part of the story remains to be told. Every nook and corner had been searched, every well sounded, when the sexton of the church, Mr. Marson Johnson, called to mind a circumstance which led to the recovery of the lost one. In the early part of the evening, Mr. Johnson had gone up into the church tower to wind the clock, when as he was passing through the dark passage in the bell deck he came suddenly upon two men smoking cigars. He interrogated them as to their business, when they answered, "We have come up here to see the fixing" meaning the democratic campaign in the violent. He ordered them out, they went up, and after winding the clock, passed out and locked the church door. With the recollection of this incident came a rush for the church, and in a high pew in the corner, the child was found and restored to the agonized parents.

A peal from the bells, as a signal agreed upon, called the people from the search. The pew in which the child was found was above her reach, and a church door through which she must have passed too heavy for her to swing, was closed upon her. No other thread to the mystery can be found than that she was stolen and placed there by the men found in the tower, but from what motive no one is able to divine.

A good many people save the Chicago Democrats, have expressed astonishment that there were so few Fremont votes in the North, or Egyptian district, (southern Illinois,) and that the efforts to spread the truth have been so unavailing. The following extract from the late census giving the number of adult persons who could not read and write may explain the reason. The population there is mostly native, and consequently the true state of society may be inferred from these statistics.

We need not go down quite so far. Sangamon gives 200 Buchanan majority. There was in this county 2021 who could not read or write of which only 169 were foreigners. Vinnebago Co gave Fremont 3200 majority, with only nine who could not read and write, of which 8 were foreigners. Franklin is the common county of Buchananism giving 1400 to 11. It has 669, all nations, who could not read or write.

From the New York Tribune

The process of subduing Freedom is going on bravely in Kansas. Twenty Free State men, charged with the enormous crime of taking up arms against a gang of ruffians, one of the outposts of an army marching on Lawrence with the avowed intention of destroying it, have—without any evidence, however, even of an attempt—been found guilty of manslaughter, and sentenced by Judge Lecompte to five years imprisonment at hard labor, which, under the Pro Slavery laws, is to be performed with a ball and chain to the leg upon the public works!

In the mean time the eminent professor of border Ruffian justice, as if to assure his fellow border Ruffians of perfect impunity, dismisses, on the bail bond of the notorious Jones, a man guilty of all infamous and most cowardly and cool murder, under the very eye, as it were, of Governor Geary himself, being no less than deliberate and wanton shooting of a cripple. He also ordered to have his horse stolen. Geary it seems unwilling to allow such a bold outrage upon his authority to go on unpunished, and to show that the Border Ruffians were not absolutely masters of the Territory, had at considerable trouble and expense caused this man to be arrested and brought to Lecompton where the Grand Jury had found a true bill against him, whereupon the Chief Justice sent him and dismissed him on bail, in other words, set him free and let him run.

Murder near Erie, Pa., last week, John Hoyt was put on trial for the murder of Caleb C. Allen. He was furiously attached to Sarah but the love was not reciprocated, being forty two and she fourteen. He went to her mother's house with a loaded revolver, entered into conversation with them, when the girl told her parent that she had told him that she would not have him. Hoyt thereupon arose, placed a revolver at the head of the deceased and discharged it, the ball entering through the upper part of the temporal bone. The mother sprang from her seat, and rushed out of the room, fell over the stove hearth in the kitchen. Hoyt fired another, but she escaped the shot by her falling. He fired again at her as she was out of doors, and followed her to the gate, but she made her escape. He then returned to the house, and finding the deceased on the floor, took her up, laid her on the sofa, and putting the pistol to her ear, fired again shot her. He gave himself up. The defence was insanity, the verdict murder in the second degree, and the sentence ten years in the state prison.

Lucrative Railroad Cars.—The Detroit Advertiser says the cars on the Illinois Central Railroad, for comfort and convenience excel those of any other road in the West. One of them contains six staterooms, each room having two seats with cushioned back, long enough for a person to lie upon. The backs of the seats are hung with hinges at the upper edge, so that they may be turned up at pleasure, thus forming two single berths, one over the other, where persons may sleep with all the comfort imaginable. In one end of the car is a small wash room, with marble wash bowls, looking-glasses, etc. On the opposite side of the car from the state room is a row of seats with revolving backs, similar to barber's chairs, so arranged that the occupant may sit straight or recline in an easy attitude at pleasure. The other five cars have each two or three similar staterooms.

Humanism in Connecticut.—The dwelling of E. C. Goodwin, editor of the Litchfield (Conn.) Enquirer, was released by a yelling crowd of semi savages, on Saturday night last, who fired a cannon, wrote it, regardless of the fact that Mr. Goodwin's aged mother lay very sick within. One discharge shattered the doors, glass &c., and shook the house as if it would tear it to pieces. Mr. Goodwin's energy and efficiency in the canvass for Fremont and Dayton was the only known provocation for this outrage. He was absent at the time.

Dodging a Dun.—Some can scent a dun at any distance and can dodge him effectively. It is a knack acquired by long experience. If the dun, however by his experience, becomes an expert, the dunnee stands a slim chance of escape.

We heard a story the other day of old Dr G., of Portsmouth, which is to the point, as regards amateur dunning or there is a wide difference between the amateur and the professional.

Dr G., was a man of great integrity and worth, and his business habits were on the square, taking everything that was his own and paying every man his due. He held a note against a gentleman of Hampton or some considerable amount, and whenever he met him the Doctor was ready, not in hand for the payment of an instalment. It become at last an agonizing dread with the debtor about meeting the Doctor, particularly at the time when troubled with a disease known in financial parlance as short. But whenever he met him the Doctor's coin would be anticipated by his debtor's movement for his pocket-book, and frequent payments were made without seeing the note at all. He knew that the Doctor was honest and that it would be all right, and several payments were thus blindly made.

A great dearth of funds made him more shy of meeting the Doctor, and as he passed through the town his eyes wandered to all direct are to catch a glimpse of his dread, and avoid him if possible. He succeeded for a while, and out-generaled the old man several times but fate once not always favor the brave, and the Doctor from a distant position saw his victim tie his horse to a post and enter a store. He made all the haste he could, and enter d the store just as his debtor dodged behind a rum cask.

"Did not I see Mr —— come in here?" asked the Doctor.

"He did come in here, sir," said the shopkeeper, "but he has gone somewhere now."

The Doctor said he was in a hurry, and could wait as well as not he new his horse at the door, and thought he would be back before long. The man remained hid, and the old Doctor waited a long time. At last he went out. Shortly after Mr —— himself went out, and was just stepping upon his wagon when the Doctor darted at him from a door way.

"Well, Mr. ——" said he, "you need not dodge me any more. That note has been paid up this six months, and I have been trying to show you that I might pay you back twenty dollars that you paid over paid me."

Tip Pates or Paper.—The Journal of Commerce quotes pointingly, a paragraph from a Kansas paper, stating that persons will be hereafter, perfectly secure in traveling in small numbers to Kansas if they will keep silk in on the exciting issues of the day. But is this a reasonable or a just restriction? The Kansas bill gives them the control of these exciting questions. Pray, how are they to exercise that control or act on the subject at all if they must keep silent about it?—New York Times.

A Mean Editor.—The editor of a western paper having lent his axe to one of his subscribers, the borrower unfortunately broke off the handle. On returning it the man said "You can easily get it fixed." "Yes" replied the editor (but that will cost at least a quarter of a dollar." "Well" rejoined the borrower, "if you might rather small for an editor I'll run the quarter, but I'll thank you to stop my paper at once."

Coon Rogues.—A stranger in Naples was reading a theatre bill in the street, had his hat stolen from his head. He turned round with astonishment to discover the thief. The real, but unsuspected rogue continue standing coolly at his side, holding the stolen hat tight in his hands, and said compose onately and coolly to the Indignant man "Sir, you should have done as I am doing and then you might have kept your hat."

"What are you about, my dear?" said his grandmother, to a little boy who was sliding along the room and casting furtive glances at a gentleman who was paying a visit. "I am trying grandma to steal papa's hat out of the room without letting that one see it," said he, pointing to the gentleman, for papa wants him to think he is out."

Hard Hit.—The following is not a bad hit at the mania for hunting up coats of arms—Two fellows were disputing about their respective claims to a distinction on the score of ancestry, when a third stepped in and said "I rather think my ancestors made more noise in the world than those of either of you for my father was a drummer and my mother cried oysters."

TO THE DAILY WHIG AND COURIER

The Burlingame Banquet.

BOSTON, Nov. 24th.

The Banquet in honor of Anson Burlingame Representative to Congress from the Fifth District, came off this evening in Faneuil Hall, and was a grand affair. About twelve hundred persons including many ladies partook at the bountifully spread tables and manifested their appreciation of the proceedings by every demonstration of enthusiasm. The Hall was handsomely decorated. The names of the Massachusetts delegation to Congress were displayed on the galleries and opposite the rostrum. The names of Fremont and Burlingame, 1856. Among other prominent mottoes were Massachusetts honors those who honor her. The 5th District will be represented in the next Congress by a man who will give expression to the sentiments of Massachusetts without fear or favor.

Shortly after 9 o'clock the guests having been seated, Hon. Joseph Story, President of the meeting, introduced, Rev. Wm. Studley who offered an eloquent prayer. The eatables were then discussed.

At 9 o'clock Mr. Burlingame entered the Hall. His appearance was hailed by a degree of enthusiasm rarely witnessed—the enthusiasm being rising and reiterating cheer upon cheer.

Letters expressing inability to be present were read from Senator Bell of New Hampshire, B. J. Marsiglia, President of the Central Union, New York, Judge Shaw, Israel Washburn of Maine, Josiah Quincy, Horace Greeley and others.

Mr. Quincy wrote as follows:—

SIR:—It would give me great pleasure to unite in the tribute to Mr. Burlingame, so well deserved and so honorably earned, and though I reluctantly inform you that our Commonwealth has escaped the disgrace which this non-election would have brought upon it, for at any time of life I am unwilling to incur the sentiment and exposure an evening banquet might induce.

With great respect I am gents,

Your obliged servant,

JOSIAH QUINCY.

The member, who partook of dinner was some thousand miles aside from the, sympathetic cheer by the feeble appearance of Mr. Burlingame was a happy and successful affair. Mr. Burlingame's looks denoted severe illness from which he has not yet recovered.

President Story introduced the Hodered toast of the occasion in an eloquent speech which he said:—On the 4th of July last in this hall he (Mr. Story) responded to a sentiment inventory to the Massachusetts delegation in Congress—in those remarks he ventured the assertion that Massachusetts would not forget those who faithfully represented her. This evening and the assembly present attested to the truth of his prophecy."

He then introduced Hon. Anson Burlingame to the audience. Mr. Burlingame then rose and the utmost enthusiasm, cheer upon cheer was given, the whole company present ladies and gentlemen rising to their feet. After the excitement was stilled, Mr. Burlingame said:—"I am too weak to say much, but I am too grateful to remain silent. I left my room for the first time in four weeks and left it under the protest of my physician. But now I am well, offer to you my profoundest thanks for the honor you have conferred on me. In the first place I offer my sincerest thanks to the laboring men of the 6th District who acted in their own opinions, who throw down the axe and the hammer and voted for whom they thought best without submitting to Southern dictation. I thank those young men whose ardor and warm hearted zeal contributed so much to the result.

I thank those independent men of other parties who did not wish to aid in an unequal struggle of three against one. I thank those colored men who in casting their votes, gave a rebuke to the slander that they thought more of their condition than of their principles, and I aver that brave old man whose name shines in the annals of our country, who gave not only his voice but a pamphlet backed by 84 years of an illustrious life devoted to his country. [Cheers]. I thank you one and all, not as a personal triumph, but for the triumph of principles. [Cheers.] I thank you that you did not give old Faneuil Hall to South Carolina. Today may call the roll of revolutionary slaves under the shadow of Bunker Hill, but the roll of freemen will go round there still. [Cheers.]

The hope was expressed that such an one would be elected from this district who would express his sentiments in Congress as to avoid giving offence to any one. Mr. B. alluded this to mean that whatever was uttered should not be obnoxious to the South. Uncle Sam was humble, but he had a motive. But his idea carried out would convert the Representative into an eternal Uriah Hosp—(Cheers.)

I am no sectionalist—no disunionist. As to what he should do in the future, he could make no pledges. No man can promise what he will do in the future. Every man should do that which was right. He would try to do so as heretofore—(Cheers). But if they rude again the white bosom of our mother, Commonwealth, I shall strike back again—(tremendous cheering, audience rising, cries of good! good!). If through craven fear or sycophancy your Representative fails to represent your manhood, cast him out from your hearts and good sympathies. (Cheers.) I shall go home as health permits me determined to mind the path of duty unawed by face of clay. (Cheers.)

In reference to the late campaign, Mr. B. said: "We drove the enemies of liberty from Bunker Hill and New England, but he still lurks in New Jersey and Pennsylvania, and in the campaign of 56 we will drive them to Yorktown and there conquer him." (Cheers.)

Mr. B. closed, say no he had spoken longer than he expected to, and bidding the audience farewell took his seat.

The audience again rose and gave long and continued cheers.

In response to the sentiment "Our Country," Hon. Henry Wilson spoke at considerable length. After a few appropriate responses to the sentiment of the toast, Mr. Wilson accorded all honor to those, who, in re-electing Mr. Burlingame, had independence enough to keep old Faneuil Hall where she ought always to be—on the side of freedom—to which she was dedicated by our fathers. (Cheers.) He said "we are here to-night a defeated party. (Cries of No! no! quite generalled.) Well we were defeated, but we retreat will gay and laughing. (Cheers and laughter.) We had a candidate (Video—We've got one now) who relies for his campaign with the high respected honor of all." (Cheers.)

Mr. Wilson closed with "Liberty and Union now and forever" as a sentiment. (Cheers.) Speeches followed by Hon. Robt. B. Hall, Hon. Charles A. Phelps, Charles Francis Adams, Hon. S. Williams, Col. F. D. Fay, R. H. Dana, Jr., Gov. Merrill of Maine, Gov. Hopkins of R. I., and others.

A song was sung by Col. Blodgett of Providence dedicated to F. S. Brooks, Esq., of S. which created much merriment.

The assembly broke up about 12 o'clock, with cheers for Burlingame, Fremont, Wilson, Sumner and others of the Massachusetts Congressional delegation.

The President's Message and Departmental Reports.

New York, Nov. 22. (Correspondence of the Courier and Enquirer.) Washington, Friday night. The President's Message is said to be nearly completed. I understand that the President claims Mr. Buchanan's election as an endorsement of his administration. The Treasury report will be a very long one, and accompanied by many new commercial tables.—The Secretary recommends the classification of collection districts, with salaries ranging from $8000 to $100.

The Hon. S. T. Billinge, Chairman, and other members of the Board of General Appraisers, are in session here, framing new rules for the uniform appraisement of merchandise.—They will report next week. A collection of all the rules and instructions for collecting the revenue, is in preparation, and will accompany the annual report.

The Secretary of State's report will communicate a great mass of important correspondence with Spain, England, Denmark and Central and South America.

Washington, Nov. 21. (Herald Correspondence.) The President, I am informed to-day, will adopt the same plan with reference to the disposition of his message, that he has on previous occasions—that is, send it to various cities to be delivered to the newspapers the moment its reading is commenced.

Mr. Meriwether arrived here to-day from New Orleans, and will proceed as soon as Secretary Marcy completes his instructions as Envoy Extraordinary to New Granada.

Southern News.

The Richmond Enquirer declares the rumor that Gov. Wise is about to call an extra session of the Virginia Legislature, to be without foundation.

The President of the Georgia Central Railroad has addressed a letter to the London Times, denying the truth of that ridiculous duelling story sent to that paper by a Mr. Arrowsmith. The President says that he was in Savannah on the 29th of August last, and knows that there is not one word of truth in that statement.

Boomage Notice.

THE Directors of the Penobscot Lumbering Association have directed the Treasurer to pay the over assessment of eight cents per thousand on the logs rafted in 1856, in cash when it is less than fifty dollars, and in scrip on two years when given provided each individual first pays all sums due by him to the Association. As in most cases the balance will be in favor of the individual, the Treasurer hopes to receive early calls.

DeGuinon's Improved

Non-Explosive Camphene & Fluid

LAMPS and CANS.

HAVING purchased the Patent Right for the State of Maine, for the above Lamps, I am now prepared to offer them, to purchasers in every variety, adapted to the use of Parlors, Churches, Stores, Factories, Vessels, Steamboats and Railroads.

These Lamps are constructed on scientific and philosophical principles, and are the only sure prevention against explosion from Camphene and Burning Fluids, being made of the most durable materials, not subject to accident from breakage or corrosion—will burn freely without smoke, giving an equal and steady light, (the nearest to gas ever produced.)

The above Lamps have proved, after four years trial, to be the best Lamps in use, giving universal satisfaction, and proving perfectly safe.

These Lamps will be sold, at wholesale or retail, as low as the ordinary Camphene and Fluid Lamp, by J. S. RICKER, No. 19 West Market Square, Bangor, Me., dealer in Lamps, China, and Crockery Ware.

California Steamers,

Carrying the United States Mail.

5th and 20th of each Month.

Greatly Reduced Prices. 50 lbs. Baggage Free.

Through Tickets, including Fare on the Isthmus, via Panama R. R.

By order of the Postmaster General, the United States Mail Steamships will here after leave Pier 1, North River, New York, directly to Aspinwall, on the 5th and 20th of each month.

Passengers are landed at the Railroad Depot, Aspinwall, and conveyed across to the Pacific Steamers without any extra expense. This is the only line going to entire Through Tickets, in Middle and Second Cabins.

Transit made in four hours, entirely by rail, this avoiding the greater portion by night in open boats of fever and ague and 200 miles of dangerous lake and river navigation, over rocks and shoals.

Arrangements have now been completed so that the regular U. S. Pacific Mail Steamer will leave Panama for San Francisco immediately on arrival of the Atlantic Mails and passengers, thus insuring passengers by the Mail Line a sure and short passage, without any detention on the Isthmus.

☞ Tickets only issued by one of the Company's Agents here, they will be recognized by the Agents at Panama, and Tickets to the Gold Mines obtained of the only authorized Agent for the Atlantic and Pacific Mail Steamship Companies, in this city.

Professor Humphrey's SPECIFICS

Homœopathic Medicines,

...FOR...

Families, Travelers, and others.

THESE Medicines have been carefully prepared, with a view of supplying families and those with Specific Remedies against all the more common diseases which occur in every day life. The list includes not only remedies for all the more common diseases, such as Coughs, Colds, Headaches, Derangements of the Stomach, Fever, Worms, Complaints, Diarrhœa, &c., but also for those more sudden and violent diseases which require to be met on the spot, the moment, such as Cramp, Cholera, Dysentery, Inflammation, &c. for whose treatment it is very important always to have the proper remedies on hand. There are also remedies for those more delicate Female Derangements which lady finds it so difficult to describe, but yet a freedom from which contributes so much to the happiness and enjoyment of life.

These Medicines are prepared in the form of Sugar Pellets, one of which is sufficient for the largest dose, and put up in boxes properly labelled. Each box contains 50 or 40 Pellets, and 35 boxes for the different ailments are contained in a case, accompanied with a small Manual or Book of Directions, containing a concise description of the diseases treated for, directions for giving the medicines, diet, &c. necessary for a cure. Cases, also containing four or six of the small boxes, are put up, which may be supplied with any of the different kinds at the option of the purchaser.

The complete Manual of Specific Homœopathic Medicines—In preparing other Homœopathic Medicines for the public, they will be recommended, for a cough, a headache, a burn, or fever, and much else, study and discrimination is required to select the proper one. But here you have a Specific Remedy for each particular disease, and however ignorant you may be of the nature of the disease, you can do them with perfect and precision, without that labor and study by which the business man is so fully able to do it, and without that necessary knowledge, and examination, which, to the mother, nurse or family, is so perplexing, annoying, and not satisfactory. The advantages are so obvious as to commend them to all.

Prepared by Dr. H. HUMPHREY, Auburn, N. H., and sold by C. B. WALKER, Agent for Maine, at Bangor.

LINCOLN'S WATER PROOF BLACKING AND LEATHER PRESERVATIVE.

Keep your Feet dry and you will seldom need a Physician.

IS not a trifle. Over half the ills that are often ascribed to wet, it is one of the greatest causes of colds and consumption. It is a fact that when the feet are often wet and chilled, the system becomes weak, and cracks, but when it is water-proof this is prevented. By the application of this preservative, it remains soft, and entirely impervious to water.

After having engaged for 25 years in the manufacture of leather, in all its branches, and being often troubled with wet feet, I was led to experiment on the present compound, and found it easy to analyze, water-proof, and at the same time extremely injurious to the leather. At last, by a chemical process, discovered a preparation which perfectly harmonizes with the astringent properties with which leather is tanned. It will not only make leather water-proof, but likewise softens the leather, at the will.

Positively, I war twice as long.

I have now used it for three years, and a large part of that time have worked in wet tannery, with my boots constantly in water, and have not had my feet wet during that time. I can therefore with full confidence, recommend it to the public as the best article in the market.

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL,

FOR THE RAPID CURE OF Colds, Coughs, and Hoarseness.

BROOKLYN, E. D., 20th Dec., 1855.

DR. J. C. AYER: I do not hesitate to say the best remedy I have ever found for Coughs, Hoarseness, Influenza, and the concomitant symptoms of a cold, is your CHERRY PECTORAL. Its effects in my family have been most salutary. I consider it the best cough medicine in use, and shall use it while I have a family to care for. Yours, ELLEN KNIGHT, M. D.

A. H. MONTGOMERY, Esq., of Cincinnati, writes: "I have used your Pectoral in my family ever since you favored it, and believe it the best medicine for its purpose extant. While it will cost me twenty five dollars for a bottle than do without it, I take any other remedy."

Croup, Whooping Cough, Influenza,

SPRINGFIELD, MASS., Feb. 1, 1856.

DR. AYER: I will cheerfully certify to the great benefit I have received from the use of your Cherry Pectoral, in the cure of Whooping Cough, Croup, and other diseases of children. We of your fraternity in Hampden County appreciate your skill, and commend your medicines to our patronage.

WILLIAM CONKLIN, M. D.

AMOS LEE, Esq., Merchant, Ia., writes, 24 Dec., 1855: "I had a bottle of your Pectoral which confined me for several weeks; took many medicines without relief. Finally tried your Pectoral, by the advice of one clergyman, Mr. Stanford, who testified in my behalf. It gave me immediate relief, and I believe that less than one-half the bottle made me completely well. Your medicine is the cheapest as well as the best we can buy, and we recommend it to our friends, as the poor man's friend."

Asthma and Pulmonary Affections.

FORT MONROE, VA., Feb. 4, 1856.

SIR: Your Cherry Pectoral has performed more than six bottles of pain. It has relieved several from alarming symptoms, and diminished pain, and is now curing a man who had to be carried in a litter from his quarters to the hospital. HENRY M. PARKER, Chief Surg. U. S. A.

A. H. RAYSER, M. D., Alton, Monroe Co., Iowa, writes, Sept. 1, 1855: "Our sales of your Cherry Pectoral for the last year have been equal to all other Cough Preparations put together, and we hear no complaints, but the most decided and unqualified praise of its superior virtues. We might add, in proof of its efficacy, that the sale of other cough medicines has ceased, the Pectoral having proved a sure remedy for all pulmonary complaints."

Consumption.

Formerly my sales were small, but for the last few years they have been very large, and increasing, as the Pectoral gains in reputation. It is the opinion of those who have used your Cherry Pectoral, that it is the best medicine for the lungs in the market. Yours, A. G. ROBINSON, Druggist, Mt. Vernon, Ind.

Bronchitis.

MT. VERNON, IND., Dec. 1, 1855.

DR. AYER: Your Cherry Pectoral is performing more than any other medicine. I have recommended it to many persons, and it has given entire satisfaction in every instance. Yours, A. G. ROBINSON, Druggist.

Singer's Sewing Machines.

THESE celebrated machines are in practical and profitable use in all parts of the civilized world. In all the various trades, and in sewing every sort of fabric, either of cloth or leather, they have been fully tried and approved. Sewing machines of other manufacturers often fail to obtain, but SINGER'S MACHINES ALWAYS OPERATE PERFECTLY, being strong, durable, and complete in contrivance and workmanship. A perfect Sewing Machine kept employed drives a clear profit of $1000 a year; but an imperfect one is a cause of constant vexation and loss. The reliability of our machines is one great reason for their unparalleled popularity.

MACHINES FOR FAMILY SEWING,

in fine and delicate construction, are recommended by all of manufacturers. Such machines are made to catch the eye, not to perform substantial work. The truth is, family sewing machines ought to be stitched by other, because they go into less skillful hands than those sold to manufacturers, and are used for a greater variety of work. The machines which have proved best for all other purposes, must be best for family use, and they are Singer's. The sales of our machines has lately been doubled. No other can compare with them in quantity of work.

☞ New machines, of the latest improved style will be exchanged for those of other makers, for sewing machines, of our own make, prefer operative machines of other manufacturers.

Wanted to sell our machines ☞ Local agents.

N. B.—All persons desiring full information about sewing machines, can obtain it by applying for a copy of I. M. Singer & Co's Gazette, a paper devoted entirely to the subject. It will be sent gratis.

THE GREATEST MEDICAL DISCOVERY

Of the Age.

DR. KENNEDY, of Roxbury, has discovered and prepared a vegetable compound, which he calls his favorite remedy for the cure of

EVERY KIND OF HUMOR

From the worst Scrofula down to the common Pimple.

He has tried it in over 1000 cases, and failed except in two cases. Cards with the names and residences of persons who have tried it, will be published in pamphlet form, with the certificates of its virtues, to be had gratis of Druggists.

Five bottles are warranted to cure the worst case of Humor.

One to three bottles will cure the common blotches on the face.

Two to three bottles will clear the skin from pimples.

Two bottles are warranted to cure the worst case of Ringworm.

Two to five bottles are warranted to cure the worst case of Tetter.

One to two bottles are warranted to cure Salt Rheum in the eyes.

Two bottles are warranted to cure Blotches on the face.

Two to six bottles are warranted to cure the worst case of Erysipelas.

One bottle is warranted to cure Ringworm in the hands.

Two to three bottles are warranted to cure the worst case of Ringworm.

Two to three bottles are warranted to cure the worst case of Tetter.

Two to four bottles are warranted to cure the worst case of Salt Rheum.

Three to four bottles are warranted to cure the worst case of Blotches on the face.

Three to four bottles are warranted to cure the worst case of Humor.

Three to eight bottles are warranted to cure the worst cases of Scrofula.

Improvement is always experienced from the first bottle, and a perfect cure is warranted when the above quantity is taken.

Reader, I positively assure you that this is no humbug. I am well known in the vicinity of Boston, and I will give $100 in money for a case of Humor in any form, that I cannot cure, or will refund the money, if the medicine does not do what I claim for it. There is no chance of mistake, or failure, in the use of this medicine. I have tried it in over 1000 cases, and have failed in only two cases. I have the certificates of over 1000 persons, who have used it, and who have given it the highest recommendation. I have the certificates of its virtues, in my own family, and I know it to be the best medicine in the world for the purpose for which it is recommended. I have tried it on myself, and I know it to be the best medicine I ever swallowed. I have spent more than $1000 in advertising, and I know it to be the best medicine I ever advertised. I have tried it on my own children, and I know it to be the best medicine I ever gave my children. I have tried it on my own wife, and I know it to be the best medicine I ever gave my wife. I have tried it on myself, and I know it to be the best medicine I ever swallowed
